

OPERATION VERVE

Welcome

Welcome to Operation Verve, the business dedicated to helping ambitious entrepreneurs to grow, scale, or even sell, the business they've been building right from scratch. We do this by developing powerful training and management resources that bring more efficiency, reliability, productivity and accuracy for you and your team.

Our fortnightly blog is jam packed filled with all of the tools, tips and resources that you need to get your business really pumping, and for members, you'll enjoy an ongoing stream of instruction videos, downloadable checklists and templates, and online courses to help you fast track the achievement of your business aims.

To learn more about our services, visit our services page where you can read about our books, our workshops and one on one consulting.

My name is Kerry Anne Nelson, founding director of Operation Verve absolutely dedicated to your business success. I would love to hear how you're going with building the business of your dreams.

So go ahead and contact me via the contact page. I'll be looking out for your email in my inbox. I can't wait to hear from you.
