"Great to have a knowledgeable consultant guide us through setting up Sharepoint file structures for our quickly growing company. An investment to get some external smarts in at the ground level for a task that SEEMS like anyone can do it using common sense...until you try to do it yourself!"

"Kerry Anne cares deeply about your freedom as a business owner. Her systems, processes and steps to success work because she is passionate about each business and works with you first in mind. Can't recommend her services enough."

Modern business is marked by uncertain conditions, rapid change, and unpredictable outcomes. The only sustainable way forward to establish stability and continuity is by having reliable operational structures set up and running in the cloud. It's the essential foundation to clear the way for progress even when the goalposts seem to be in continuous motion.

There are plenty of reasons to organise your cloud storage. You might be setting up for your staff to work from home, or decentralising operations to increase the agility and responsiveness of your business. You might want more control and transparency in your organisation, or you might be systemising to delegate more effectively.

Whatever unique reason you have for revamping the way you operate, one thing is certain: The key to an effective cloud-based system is setting up the right structure for you.

An effective filing system provides the operational infrastructure your business needs. A clear, well-organised workspace maintains the productivity, efficiency, and confidence of your team, no matter where they're working from.

This simple chart will make your cloud-based business work for you. Use it to build your own filing system, or pass the plans we make back to your IT consultant to let them do the heavy lifting for you.

See you in the cloud!

- We plan how access will be managed by your staff so they can easily get what they need without being overwhelmed by files they don't need
- If you are working with a web developer or IT consultant, we finalise the chart with them to ensure they have everything they need to build your new system
